PUSTNE ŠEGE
V REGISTRU

SHROVETIDE CUSTOMS
IN THE REGISTER OF THE
INTANGIBLE CULTURAL HERITAGE OF SLOVENIA

Pustne šege predstavljajo izredno raznoliko pustno dediščino Slovenije, za katero so značilna manjša lokalna pustovanja in karnevali. Bogastvo pustnih šeg je razvidno tudi iz Registra nesnovne kulturne dediščine, v katerega je bilo do konca leta 2020 vpisanih 14 enot. Vpisana so lokalna pustovanja, ko so se včasih predvsem moški, danes pa se moški, ženske in otroci oblečejo v tradicionalne pustne oprave ter opravijo obhode po domači in sosednjih vaseh. Domačinom zaželijo dobro in rodovitno letino, s hrupom pa odganjajo vse slabo preteklega leta. Priprave na pust ponekod začnejo že decembra, za nekatere pa se pustni čas začne na svečnico (2. februarja) in traja vse do pepelnice (sreda po pustni nedelji), začetka postnega časa pred veliko nočjo.

Podobnost in različnost pustnih šeg, ki se ves čas spreminjajo in prilagajajo času in prostoru, sta v Sloveniji opazni na vsakem koraku. Ohranjanje pustne tradicije in zagotavljanje občutka za identiteto nosilcev in njihovega okolja omogočata predvsem prisotnost in živost pustnih šeg.

Register nesnovne kulturne dediščine Slovenije / Register of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Slovenia

Shrovetide customs represent the extremely varied Shrovetide heritage of Slovenia, which is characterised by small local celebrations and carnivals. The richness of these customs is also clear from the Register of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Slovenia, in which 14 had been inscribed by the end of 2020. These are largely local customs that were once the preserve of men, but now men, women and children dress in traditional Shrovetide attires and make the rounds of their own and neighbouring villages. They wish locals a good and fruitful harvest, and make a lot of noise to drive away all the bad aspects of the previous year. In some places carnival preparations begin as early as December, while Shrovetide begins on Candlemas (2 February) and lasts right until Ash Wednesday (the Wednesday after Shrove Sunday), when Lent begins.

The similarities and differences between these customs in Slovenia are visible at every step. The customs are also constantly changing, adapting to current conditions. This confirms their presence and vitality as important elements in safeguarding Shrovetide traditions and ensuring the feeling of identity of the bearers and their community.
